Why is your child applying to college?

Are you aware of any specific career goals they might have?

What do you consider to be your child's strengths and talents?

In what area do they have difficulty?

Have they encountered any adversity in their life?

What has their high school experience been like?

What area of the college process may be difficult for them? What area might cause friction between you and your child?

Are there any constraints that your child has in regard to area/location of school? City vs. rural setting? Do you have any specific preferences?

Are there financial considerations in regard to cost? If so, what is the maximum amount for tuition and room & board that is comfortable for your family?

Are there any particular schools that you would like your child to consider?

Have you visited any colleges? If so, what were your impressions?

How can “Your Journey to College” college consulting services help you throughout this process?

Thank you! We look forward to working with you!
